Get Online NOLA's Ribbon Cutting Celebration

(New Orleans, Louisiana) - Get Online NOLA celebrated the opening of their new office with a ribbon-cutting ceremony on Wednesday, March 29th at 11:00am CST. Together with representatives from the New Orleans Chamber of Commerce including President & CEO Ben Johnson and Membership Development Director Ashley Falkenstein and co-founders Wendy and Jeremy Dolan marked this achievement with their employees, clients, and esteemed members of the New Orleans tech and business community.

Get Online NOLA was founded in 2013 to help small businesses and non-profit organizations to take control of their online presence. The company provides reasonably priced websites, digital marketing, and informational resources to empower entrepreneurs and local businesses.

Wendy Dolan, Founder and President, Get Online NOLA, said: "We were honored and thrilled to see so many of our friends and clients at the ceremony. The support we received from the small business community in New Orleans is so inspiring. Working with small business owners to help them present a positive online message is one of my favorite parts of my job. Having this new office space allows us to be more available to our clients and expand our services."

New ventures on the horizon for Get Online NOLA include increasing and expanding their popular Website Workshops series in New Orleans, and adding bi-monthly classes in the Houma/Thibodaux region as well. Get Online NOLA is also partnering with the SBDC to host a series of digital marketing and social media workshops. The first will be held at Delgado on March 28th & April 4th and the second in Houma at Fletcher Community college on April 20th & April 27th.
